Coaching-Program CORA

Coaching Women for Research and Academia

Call for Applications

The University Freiburg offers the coaching program CORA under the auspices of the Gender and Diversity office for ten female researchers at the end of the doctoral process. The aim of the program is a long-term rise in the proportion of women on the academic qualifications ladder after their doctorates.

The program is intended for female researchers at the University of Freiburg who have submitted their thesis, female postdocs, assistant professors, and group leaders from all faculties.

A requirement for participation is the intention of qualifying for a responsible position in academia.

The CORA coaching program foresees individual coaching of up to eight sessions per participant as well as exclusive training sessions to complement the University’s existing advanced training courses, motivation via regular meetings of the peer group, and the building-up of a network of women researchers.

Interested female academics are invited to send in their application by 1 September 2019 to the Gender and Diversity Office.
